

Taylor's Eye Witness was founded by John Taylor in the early part of the 19th Century. They have stood the test of time through an unrelenting dedication to quality, service and good old fashioned technical know-how in the design and production of kitchen knives. Still operating from the original site in Sheffield where they started out in 1838, this family business manufactures and sources kitchen knives and other housewares products for retailers across the world.

What they don't know about knives isn't worth knowing.

A large, high-quality kitchen knife with a stainless steel blade and a black handle. The blade is sharp and has a slight curve. The handle is ergonomically designed.
